The Penhold Fire Department offers you the same training programs that full-time firefighters receive, but our program is broken into part-time modules easily taken while working at your current job.

The courses are offered at no cost to you, and you even will be paid for the time you spend working for the department!

Most of your new skills will transfer to different departments if you move to a new community. About 80 percent of Alberta’s firefighters are members of volunteer departments, and only 8 departments in the province are composed of full-time staff. It pays to volunteer!
